

M'CUMBER PLEA FOR BONUS FOR SOLDIERS TODAY

Declares Nation's Honor or Demands Equalized Pay.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Aug. 23.—Enactment of soldiers' bonus legislation at this session of congress is demanded by every precept of financial justice and every principle of political honor, Chairman McCumber of the finance committee declared today in opening debate on the amended bill, with its bank loan certificate provision in lieu of the original proposal for a cash bonus.

Asserting that the term "bonus" was a misnomer, Senator McCumber said the purpose was to equalize, in a measure, the pay of the men called to the colors with that received by those who stayed at home and profited by what he characterized as a "wild, drunken orgy of extravagance," that accompanied the war.

"Show Good Faith Now"
The finance committee chairman told the senate the time had come for congress to show that it was not attempting to play politics with the American soldier, that it was "acting in good faith," when it passed the first bonus bill just before the elections in 1920.

"The president in his campaign of 1920 declared himself in favor of some kind of a soldiers' compensation bill," he continued. "Republicans both in the campaign and on the floor of the senate have reiterated their determination to make good these promises. They were made in good faith and that good faith will be manifested by the vote on this measure."

Pay With Foreign Debt
Senator McCumber argued that the funds necessary for the financing of the bonus legislation could be obtained from the refunded foreign debt, and that if the refunding were not completed when it became effective the interest from the British debt, which, he said, the British government already had planned to pay, would be sufficient.

Cost of the Bonus
As to the cost of the legislation, Mr. McCumber estimated this at a total of $3,845,000,000 spread over forty years. For the next calendar year he placed the cost at $77,440,889 increased to $98,177,729 for 1934 and decreased to $73,100,925 in 1955. The cost would run into several hundred million in 1926 when the veterans could call on the government for loans on the adjusted service certificates, but the speaker said that by 1930 the cost annually would drop to $21,000,000 with only a very few millions thereafter until 1943, when the certificates would come due.

Other Money Goes Easily
"Twenty millions given in charity to Russia," he continued, "twenty-five million to save Colombian settlement, $20,000,000 for ship subsidy and not a ripple of comment; we talk of $135,000,000 for good roads, or two or three hundred millions to assist railroads, all in a single year, as if they amounted to nothing. Why on earth, then, should we approach this soldiers' compensation bill as though it were an obligation requiring a special tax levy or as one endangering the refunding on short time obligations?"

Hearings on Public Improvements Called

The regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening was absolutely devoid of features, there being no business nor bills to be acted upon.

Next Tuesday evening, however, the city fathers anticipate another busy session, for at that time public hearings on two improvement projects will be held. These improvements are the proposed concrete gutter and island parkway on East Third street and the sewer in the southeast part of the city.

It is proposed to construct concrete curb-gutter on E. Third street from Artesian Place east to the top of the hill, and to provide an eight-foot parkway in the center of the street, giving it a boulevard effect. The proposed sewer is for Crawford avenue, East Eighth street, Poplar street, Hemlock avenue and Inlet avenue.

FORMER DIXON WOMAN IS DEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. L. W. Mitchell of this city yesterday received word of the death of a friend in Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Emma Holly Ford died in Los Angeles, August 11th. Her father, David A. Holly, was an early settler in Palmyra and the news of Mrs. Ford's death will be heard with sorrow by many friends.

Mrs. Ford's wish that the remains be cremated was acceded to and her ashes will be brought to Dixon and buried in the family lot by the side of her husband.

SEN. HOPKINS IS DEAD; FAMOUS G. O. P. LEADER

Veteran Statesman Was Big Figure in Lorimer Affair.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 23.—Former United States Senator A. J. Hopkins, for years a republican leader in congress and a central figure in the sensational deadlock of 1909 in the Illinois legislature which culminated in the election of William Lorimer who was afterward expelled from the United States senate on bribery charges, died today at his home here, aged 76 years. Mr. Hopkins sought re-election to the senate in 1908 and carried the primary but at that time the popular vote was not mandatory on the legislature. Lorimer was not a candidate in the primary.

Long Public Service
Mr. Hopkins was elected to the lower house of congress seven successive times and was then chosen senator. Before this he had held elective offices in his city and county. He was recognized as one of the ablest lawyers of the state and when he left the senate retained the practice of law.

Friend of Roosevelt
The late Theodore Roosevelt was one of Mr. Hopkins' intimate friends and June 3, 1903, he visited Aurora as the senator's guest.

The visit was made most enjoyable for the president by a block long banner hung on a school house by children. The banner read: "Hail to the president who believes in little children and lots of them." Colonel Roosevelt was bowing from his horse drawn carriage and talking to little ones running along the street when he caught sight of the banner. "Bully," he exclaimed and made a gesture as though he would sweep all the little ones to his breast.

Lived in DeKalb County
Mr. Hopkins was a native of Illinois, his father was one of the pioneer farmers of Illinois, having come to this state in 1837, locating in DeKalb county. Mr. Hopkins graduated at Hillsdale College, Mich., in June, 1870. He studied law and commenced the practice of his profession at Aurora. He was state's attorney for Kane county from 1872 to 1876; member of the republican state central committee from 1878 to 1880, and presidential elector in 1894. He was a member of the forty-ninth, fiftieth, sixtieth, sixtieth, sixtieth, sixtieth and seventh congresses, being elected United States senator in 1902 serving until 1909.

Helped on Panama Canal
During Mr. Hopkins' service in congress he held important committee positions both in the house and senate. He was a member of the ways and means committee in the house for 14 years, and during that period helped frame every tariff law from the McKinley bill to the Dingley Law. He was a member of the finance committee of the senate during his service in that body, and of the Inter-Oceanic Canal. It was while serving on the latter committee that he brought before the senate a substitute for the committee report, favoring a lock level canal as against a sea level canal, recommended by the committee, and by his speech in the senate secured the adoption of his amendment to the committee bill, thus insuring the construction of a lock level canal. The Panama Canal is a permanent evidence of his legislative work in the senate of the United States.

Cruiser Rescues
Flyers and Tries Seaplane Salvage
By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Aug. 23.—The United States cruiser, Denver, which rescued Walter Hinton and his companions from the wrecked seaplane, Kampa Correlia, is on its way to Key West, naval officials said here today. The seaplane fell while flying from Nassau to Haiti on the way from New York to Rio de Janeiro.

It was reported that a navy tug was on its way to the damaged flying boat and would attempt to tow her into Guantanamo or some other southern port in an effort to salvage the craft so the light can be resumed.

The Sampaio Correlia left New York on August 17 to make the light by stages, planning to arrive in Rio de Janeiro in time for the centennial exposition there. She left Nassau yesterday morning and meagre despatches received here stated that she was wrecked when Lieutenant Hinton misjudged his distance in dropping to the water.

RAIL PEACE IS STILL IN DOUBT IN N. Y. PARLEY

Southern Railway Situation Clears Up—Violence Reported.

RAIL STRIKE SUMMARY

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Rail executives meeting in New York to reply to proposals of train service brotherhood leaders for mediation in shopmen's strike reach no decision at morning session.

Restoration of train service on Louisville-St. Louis line of Southern Railway started following cancellation last night of walkout by trainmen, after agreement of company to reduce numbers of armed guards.

Six Oklahoma national guard units mobilized on reports that 100 deputy United States marshals, sufficient to guard Rock Island shops at Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Scattered acts of violence continue.

New York, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Railway executives, convened today to consider proposals for settlement of the shopmen's strike submitted last week by the running trades acting as mediators, adjourned at 12:30 o'clock until 2:30, after a discussion lasting more than two hours. Although no official statement was forthcoming, it was reported that certain counter proposals had been under discussion.

This was taken to indicate that should the executives not accept the suggestions made by the brotherhood chiefs the door to peace still would be left open.

"The situation looks mighty serious," Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific said to a colleague on leaving the meeting.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 23.—As railroad executives gathered in New York today to consider peace proposals by the heads of the transportation brotherhoods acting as mediators in the shopmen's strike, trouble on the Southern Railway, principal sufferer from trainmen's walkouts during the last few days, began to clear away.

The voice of the peace dove was drowned, however, in the noise of exploding bombs which kept the rail strike fever at a high stage in some of the nation's rail centers.

Bombs in Illinois.
A tremendous explosion in the Chicago & Alton round house at Venice, Illinois, shook buildings within a radius of three miles and police squads were rushed to the shops when further violence was threatened. Several sticks of dynamite were thrown on the roof of the round house where a number of men were working.

Bombs were hurled at the homes of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe employees at San Bernardino, California, where daily outbreaks have marked the shopmen's strike. Windows were broken by the explosions but no injuries were reported.

$5,000 for Gary Weekers.
Michigan Central officials increased their reward for the arrest of plotters accused of causing the Gary, Indiana, wreck Sunday, to $5,000. The original reward was $1,000.

Little Rock, Arkansas, police failed to locate a Missouri Pacific shop employee who was reported to have been kidnapped and severely beaten on Monday night. A companion who escaped after a fight with his captors, carried the story of the kidnapping back to Little Rock.

Switchmen Balk.
Switchmen in the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis yards at Paducah, Kentucky, refused to go to work because of an alleged attack on one of their number by a railroad guard.

Train service was restored on the Southern Railway following the removal of most of the troops which had been on guard in the Spencer and Salisbury, North Carolina and Princeton, Indiana, yards.

The guard was reduced in a compromise with trainmen who walked out when soldiers were sent to quell disturbances.

Guard Friendly Preacher.
Striking shopmen of the Southern Railway at Salisbury were on guard around the home of the Reverend Thomas P. Jimison, who received threatening letters following an assault on him by a postal employee. The minister had been a champion of the shopmen's strike and strikers went to his defense, maintaining guards in eight hour shifts at the preacher's home.

DROWNED IN WISCONSIN.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—John White, 39, of Kewanee, Illinois, was drowned in Lake Mendota here today. He had gone fishing early this morning and was last seen standing in his boat some way out from shore. It is believed that he fell from the boat and could not swim. His body was recovered.

YEA, VERILY, IT'S A HARD JOURNEY

KILL MICHAEL COLLINS, IRISH GOV'T. LEADER

Head of Provisional Government Slain
from Ambush.

Dublin, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—It was announced today that in view of assassination of Michael Collins, the Dail Eireann would be summoned immediately, probably meeting on Saturday of the present week.

BULLETIN.
Dublin, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—A national funeral with full military honors will be accorded to Michael Collins. His body will lie in state prior to interment in the Glasnevin cemetery, where Arthur Griffith was buried a few days ago.

The ambush occurred in a wild mountain road between Macroom and Bandon at 7:30 o'clock. Collins was in an open touring car, with Major General Dalton, commander of Free State troops in Cork; Commandant Dolan, governor of the Mount Joy prison and Captain Montgomery and officer of the general staff.

A party of national army troops escorting the officers, had just passed the little village of Bealbanack, when a volley of shots rang out from the group of republican irregulars, who were concealed along the sides of the road.

The first fusillade of the irregulars caused no casualties. Collins and the members of his party immediately jumped from their vehicles, took to cover and engaged the attackers in a heavy fight which lasted half an hour.

Shortly before the assault was beaten off, Collins was hit by a bullet in the ear and fell mortally wounded. He lived only a few minutes. His comrades continued the fight and Major General Dalton was wounded. The driver of the car in which Collins and his companions were riding also was hurt, and a motorcycleist accompanying the party was critically wounded in the neck.

OTHERS WERE SHOT?
London, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—An Evening News dispatch from Dublin today says it is believed Michael Collins was accompanied by seven Free State staff officers, including Major General Dalton, when the Free State chief was killed from ambush last night at Bandon. Several soldiers, the dispatch says, are believed to have been killed or wounded during the attack on Collins' party.

A Central News dispatch from Dublin says it is reported that Major General Dalton, himself was slightly injured during the fight in which Collins was killed.

QUESTION SANITY OF DISCIPLE OF "HEART HEALER"

Husband of Mrs. Talcott Asks and Gets Court Inquiry.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 23.—An inquiry into the sanity of Mrs. W. W. Talcott, a disciple of Albert J. Moore, self-styled "healer of broken homes and hearts," was ordered today by County Judge Righheimer on petition of Mrs. Talcott's husband. Moore was fined $100 yesterday in municipal court on charges of obtaining money from women followers by deception.

Further inquiry into Moore's religious practices and his conduct of the life institute was started by the state's attorney's office with the summoning of witnesses for questioning.

Moore again today was surrounded by a flock of women disciples when his counsel presented a motion in municipal court to vacate the fine. The motion was denied and announcement of an appeal was made. Notwithstanding his counsel's action, Moore declared he had received a fair trial.

Could 'Raise the Dead'
Mrs. James H. Cartwright, wife of an associate justice of the Illinois supreme court, testified yesterday that Moore had declared he could "raise the dead." She said he had obtained $2500 from her but she since had lost all faith in his teachings.

Aurora Boxing Carnival Now Much Abbreviated

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 23.—Threatening weather, the presence of many counter attractions, and light ticket sales, caused promoters of the boxing carnival to decide on combining the four day program into two days, it was announced today.

Last night's program was called off as well combined with tonight's and the card will be headed by the Bob Martin-Andy Schneider bout of ten rounds. The Mandell bout scheduled for last night was abandoned.

On Friday night, Joe Burman and Eddie Anderson will be the headliners. Lowering clouds this afternoon influenced the promoters in postponing the Bob Martin-Andy Schneider bout, scheduled for tonight, until next week. It was announced that Friday night's program will be carried through as scheduled.

FEDERAL RAID BREAKS UP RADICAL MEETING HELD IN THE WOODS

Many Alleged Communists Escape By Advance Warning.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Bridgman, Mich., Aug. 23.—Fifteen alleged members of the communist party of America were under arrest today following a raid on a meeting in the woods near here yesterday.

Federal officers and Berrien county deputies arrested the men, after they had received information, it was said, that seventy-six reputed radicals were in session.

The raiders seized a large quantity of literature which they said indicated a purpose of utilizing the coal and rail strikes as a means of obtaining control of government property.

The papers indicated also, it was added that the meeting here, was preliminary to the national convention of the Trades Educational League and national workers party to be held in Chicago on August 27-28.

"Officers believe the meeting had attracted a larger gathering, but that the main body of the men had left on receiving advice of the impending raid."

Dixon and Sterling Elks Play Ball on Thursday Afternoon

The members of the Dixon Elks base ball team and the members of the Sterling Elks base ball team will meet in mortal combat at the Sterling base ball park Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

As each side is equally determined to wear the laurels of victory, the game is sure to be an exciting one. As the stores in each city are closed for the afternoon the attendance at the game should be a record breaker, for each Elks playing naturally expects abundant support from his friends.

EMMERSON ASKS ARREST OF MEN WHO DON'T DIM

State Wants Prosecution of Drivers Who Caused Accidents.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Aug. 23.—Instructions to bend all their efforts to an attempt to apprehend the drivers of automobiles whose glaring headlights caused two fatal accidents Sunday, were sent by Secretary of State Emmerson today to state automobile inspectors at Dixon and Girard.

Dixon.—James R. Bales of Dixon, State Automobile Inspector for this district, has received instructions from Secretary Emmerson as outlined in the foregoing dispatch from Springfield.

The accident in Dixon, which cost the lives of two little children and a woman early Sunday morning, is charged to bright lights which blinded the driver of the wrecked car at a turn in the road. The driver of the car with the bright lights, which was headed west, did not stop and there is no clue to his identity. It is possible that he did not know an accident had happened.

Cow Runs Amuck in East St. Louis and Injures Brave Woman

By Associated Press Leased Wire
East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 23.—An apparently harmless cow that had been shipped here from Pittsfield, Illinois, went on a rampage yesterday afternoon, probably fatally wounding Mrs. Margaret Woods of this city in her attempt to rescue her child from the raging animal, chased a lineman up a telephone pole and for several minutes defied a fusillade of shots poured from several policemen's pistols until the animal finally fell, fatally shot by a nearby farmer.

The animal was being unloaded from a steamer with a herd of cattle, when it jumped overboard and swam ashore. Mrs. Woods was the animal's first victim. The woman had hurried to a vacant lot where her little son was playing, to rescue the child, when she was attacked, trampled and gored. She was taken to a hospital in a precarious condition.

The next victim was Louis Abernathy, a lineman. He, however, made use of his steel climbers attached to his feet, and with the agility of a squirrel climbed a pole to safety.

Woman's Day Today at Moose Convention

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 23.—This was women's day at the 32nd annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose at Mooseheart. A woman's temple in which there will be rest rooms and dormitories for mothers was dedicated and teams of the woman's Moose legion competed in ritualistic drills. There were also drills by men teams.

Davis' Visit Delayed
Secretary of Labor James J. Davis who was to have arrived today was detained in Washington by the industrial situation.

A campaign surmounted by a statue of Mr. Davis was to have been dedicated next Sunday but in the event that he cannot get here the exercises will be put off until next year. Mr. Davis is director general of the Moose and the founder of Mooseheart vocational school.

It was announced at the convention that "Mr. Davis is detained at Washington by the same thing the President is, the rail strike situation."

Big Field of Horses at the Aurora Races

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 23.—The Iowa stake, a 214 trot, purse $1000 was the feature race on today's program at the Central States fair. Forty horses were nominated for the race and even allowing for last minute cancellations of entries there were prospects of a huge field and spirited racing.

The Elgin trot for horses in the 225 class and the Joliet pace for side wheelers eligible to the 217 pace completed the card. Purse in both races were $1000.

The races are being run under the system every heat a race, three races to a contest. Prizes are awarded after each heat.

Could Start Work on Muscle Shoals

Washington, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Secretary Weeks has asked President Harding to decide whether the unexpended balance of an old appropriation by congress now totalling about $900,000 shall be made immediately available to army engineers for expenditure on the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

Favorable decision by the President, it was said today, would allow engineers to conduct operations at Muscle Shoals on a much larger scale than is possible prior to October 1, when the $7,500,000 appropriation recently authorized by congress becomes available.

ILLINOIS MINES HOISTING COAL; FIELDS ACTIVE

Plenty of Coal Soon If Railroads Can Haul It.

BULLETIN.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Aug. 23.—After first voting to give preference to the Bland coal investigation bill, providing for an investigation commission on which miners and operators would be represented, the house rules committee reversed itself today and reported out the Winslow administration bill for a commission composed entirely of impartial representatives of the public.

The committee also brought out an open rule, however, which would permit amendment of the Winslow measure to provide for representation by miners and operators. By the action the question whether such representation should be prohibited as insisted upon by President Harding was squarely before the house.

When shrieking whistles announced the end of the strike in Illinois yesterday, towns in the coal fields bustling with activity as news of the settlement in Chicago spread. Mules were corralled and hasty preparations were made to begin hoisting coal today.

Go Right to Work.
Men on the first shifts began digging a few hours after news of the truce reached the coal fields. Settlement of the coal strike in Illinois was made on the basis of the Cleveland agreement, which opened the way to peace in the bituminous fields. The miners hailed the settlement as a victory and Illinois operators admitted their surrender under pressure from a public demand to end the strike.

Illinois and Indiana miners, in returning to the pits today followed the lead of union coal diggers in Michigan, Iowa, Wyoming, Montana and other states, where similar agreements based on the Cleveland terms were made.

Other Parleys On.
Peace parleys in Kansas and other fields of the southwest indicated an early end to the strike in those sections, but operators and miners in the anthracite industry broke off negotiations in Philadelphia without making any progress toward a settlement of the strike of 155,000 miners in the hard coal fields.

Most Mines at Work.
With Illinois and Indiana miners back in the pits, union officials estimated that the strike settlement covered part of the bituminous fields covered by the United States. Illinois alone produces 15 per cent of the nation's output of soft coal.

Now Up to Railroads.
Dr. F. C. Honnold, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators Association, predicted the fuel shortage in Illinois would be wiped out within two months after the end of the railroad strike. Normal production in the soft coal mining industry, operators declared, depends on railroad conditions.

Completion of peace in the greater part of the bituminous fields ended the department of labor's estimate of the weekly bituminous coal production at 9,000,000 tons within a week.

Production of soft coal in sufficient quantities within two weeks to supply the needs of households was forecast by operators following yesterday's settlement.

Sees Pub's as Loser.
Discussing the operators' surrender of their demands for arbitration of disputes in the coal industry, W. K. Kavanaugh, president of districts five and nine said: "We are happy over the settlement and we leave here conscious of the fact that we have made a good fight, a fight for the public, although we lost. We made the fight in behalf of the public and we surrendered at the demand of the public, but I hardly think the miners can afford to win another such fight as this."

Inasmuch as the Illinois settlement was made on the basis of the Cleveland plan, Mr. Kavanaugh said he presumed Illinois operators would join in the conference on October 2 between operators and miners.

Conditions Not Changed.
By the truce until next April, the miners returned to work under the same working conditions and with the same pay they received when they went on strike on April 1 of this year.

Although Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners' union, ordered the 50,000 coal diggers in his state back to work today, union miners at Taylorville halted at answering the whistles until non-union men in the Peabody mines are discharged.

As the settlement between operators and miners was reached in Chicago, Governor Small named the Chicago and downstate fuel distribution committees to act in conjunction with Robert M. Modill, state director of mines and minerals, who was appointed fuel administrator for Illinois.

WITH SACRED JOY—
Before Jehovah's awful throne,
Ye nations, bow with sacred joy:
Know that the Lord is God alone;
He can create and he destroy.

His sovereign power, without our aid,
Made us of clay, and formed us men;
And when, like wandering sheep, we strayed,
He brought us to his fold again.

We are his people; we his care;
Our souls, and all our mortal frame;
What lasting honors shall we rear,
O mighty Maker, to thy name?

We'll crowd thy gates, with thankful songs,
High as the heaven our voices raise,
And earth, with her ten thousand tongues,
Shall fill thy courts with sounding praise.

Wide as the world is thy command;
Vast as eternity thy love;
Firm as a rock thy truth shall stand,
When rolling years shall cease to move.

MESSAGE FROM OAKDALE CAMP MEETING—

Bishop M. T. Maze, of LeMars, Iowa, and President C. A. Mock, of Western Union College, were the speakers at the Oakdale Park camp meeting on Sunday, and their splendid messages were heard by large congregations. The Sunday school met at 1:30 p. m. and the attendance was about 1200. The offering was $131.67. Ashton had the best offering in proportion to the number present. Grace church was represented by 32 people. The management is planning further improvements and the financial support is cheerful and liberal. Rev. C. G. Unaugst led the great Sunday school in the study of the Bible lesson. The gentle shower of rain on Monday morning was welcomed and is regarded as a prophecy of the spiritual blessings that will be enjoyed by the campers as the days go by.

YOKOHAMA HARBOR

BY DR. CLAUDE BACKUS, in the Orient.

At the break where the harbor lights bevin,
Where the ships steam out and ships steam in,
I can hear the whirr of the slipping chain
As the tramp takes her place in the shipping lane.
Through the mist comes the shriek of the siren's call
And I hear the splash of the anchor's fall.
Gray ghosts they lie but with moonlight
Will tower great monsters in drab and white.
Red rust will show the wear of tide
Where the lighters creep along the side.

Defier of storm, a Queen of the sea
The "Golden State" lies at the quay, Dunraven's yacht of racing fame
Tugs at a buoy with a Swedish name
Along her bow. Riding close at the harbor rim
Are the rakers of muscles, their figures dim Crouched to the warmth of hebechi's flame
As they sort the catch of the workers there.

Lying far in the outer stream
Like a wreath of half-forgotten dream
Is a liner, held in quarantine,
Through the lifting fog but faintly seen.
And sampans steal like phantom craft
Before the sweep of the sculler's shaft
From the canal below the bluff's broad base,
Silent and swift with the panther's grace
Then if the day light clear and fair
We gaze at Fuji, towering there,
While distant the fishing fleet is white
As the flash of the sea gull's silver flight.

And the stench of the dock and the dank of the sea,
And the bustle of life on wharf and quay
And the port where the Orient will begin And ships steam out and ships steam in Where you hear the whirr of the slipping chain,
As the tramp takes her place in the shipping lane,
Will make a niche in Memory's hall
And you'll long for the splash of the anchor's fall
In days to come, when evening's light
Brings visions of ghosts, in drab and white,
Towering high as they lie in the stream
The wreaths of a half forgotten dream.

Demosthenes Gets Western Democrat in Lots of Trouble

By Associated Press Licensed Wire
Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—Demosthenes lived in 384 B. C., or something like that, spoke a language now reputed to be dead, but he is nevertheless a very live issue in the Democratic congressional campaign being waged in this part of the state by Fred Schade.
The trouble started when Schade, in a political speech, accused Demosthenes of being a traitor to his country and called the ancient orator a "damn dirty Greek." The Spokane Greek colony immediately through their leaders, demanded a retraction.

Schade refused to retract and told the "Greek boys" to study up on Greek history.

No feature of one's personality contributes so much to passing years as the condition and color of the hair. If treatment and proper care is given in time one could avoid the embarrassing conditions of premature gray, lifelessness, falling and broken hair.
For those whose hair is already gray and wish it restored to its natural shade, use the highest grade dyes and have the most efficient operators do the work.
For those whose hair is in poor condition we give the most efficient treatments. Remember, a woman's hair is her crowning glory. Do not neglect it.

DIM YOUR LIGHTS

Perhaps you do not realize it, but when you fail to dim your automobile headlights on the approach of another vehicle you are violating the Illinois statute. Of course, you may "get away with it" because of the frequency of the thing, but rest assured that should an accident happen while your bright lights are blinding another driver, you will be an easy mark for a lot of trouble. And you will deserve all you get.

Failure to recognize the rights of others is not sportsmanlike. It is not good driving. It is as apt to mean an accident to yourself as the other fellow.

This selfish, lawless attitude caused an accident in Dixon early Sunday morning which snuffed out three lives and seriously injured two other people. Two of the victims were innocent, helpless little babies, and the third was a woman, their aunt. They were dashed into eternity just because some piglike driver was careless of the rights of others to dim his lights. He is a murderer, and for the sake of the unrest of his mind, we hope he knows it.

Read over this copy of a paragraph from the state law and remember it:
Sec. 217 of Chapter 121 of the Statutes of Illinois provides:

"On approaching another vehicle proceeding in an opposite direction, and when within not less than 250 feet of same, any person in charge of a motor vehicle equipped with electric headlights, shall dim or extinguish such headlight or headlights."

Violation of said section is punishable by fine of $25.

PLAYING HORSE

We would walk on all fours instead of on two feet, for nature intended man to be a quadruped. This thrilling suggestion comes from an able authority—Courtiers, celebrated French scientist.

Men who have hunted for collar buttons under the bureau will not agree with him. Nor will the father whose young son insists that pa
"play horse."

Courtiers' suggestion is valuable, however, for no other reason than the laughs it starts. Anything that takes people's minds off their problems and stops morbid introspection —analysis of self—is a stimulant and tonic.

That is why so many men, fagged out from the day's work, turn to the newspaper comic pictures before they read page one news stories.

Evolutionists believe that man once scrambled about "on all fours."
Like a monkey. What made him get up on his hind legs? Probably it was the discovery that he could walk that way and use his fore-legs to carry some armful of coconuts for his family.

In those days, human arms must have been as long as the legs, like monkeys you have seen in the circus with their hands reaching below their knees as they stalked about.

Gradually the arms shortened to a more convenient length. Such is the scientific theory—interesting, whether you believe it or not.

Courtiers is not the only scientist who thinks we are violating natural law by not walking like quadrupeds.
Standing up, your stomach and other internal organs sag. Their arrangement indicates that their most natural position is when we are on sides and knees. Possibly this explains our instinctive attempts to brace up our abdomens by corsets, belts and tight trouser bands.

The correct position of the body in walking may be debatable. But this much is certain: When feeling dizzy or ill in any way, nothing beats lying on the back.

A person lying down relieves his internal machinery of the strain that is always present when moving about on the feet. The heart, too, has less work to do in pumping the blood.

Rest and complete relaxation—even for only 10 to 20 minutes at a time often will enable the body to recharge its batteries sufficiently to ward off what might develop into serious illness.

We get ill on our feet. We recover lying down.

KEY TO GREATNESS

Scientific investigation of the human body's endocrine glands may answer the baffling mystery of "why so many writers come from Indiana."

Gifted writers usually have abnormally active thyroid glands, with the customary symptoms of hyper-thyroidism—artistic temperament, vivid imagination and the semi-trance that makes life seem a fantastic, unreal dream.

Something that stimulates the thyroid probably exists in the air, water or other phase of the climate of Indiana.

Each district of the earth produces a characteristic type of people. You observe this emphatically when you see a man from Japan standing beside a man from America.

Similarly, you find the people different in various parts of the United States. One section is quick-moving and restless. Another is languid, even indolent. A third is slow-thinking, almost stupid. So it goes, and people move about until they find a district where the inhabitants appeal to them, where they "fit in."

Glandular research may be the key to the reason why certain parts of the earth's surface produce so many agitated, artists, musicians, inventors, "dumb-bells" 'captains of industry and so on.

You have heard people say instinctively, "There's something in the water in that section that doesn't agree with me, makes me feel out of sorts." In other words, the water does not supply the chemicals necessary to the individual's peculiar glandular needs.

Something in the climate of Japan affects the pituitary gland, producing a race of short people. Farther west, the climate works on pituitary glands to produce the tall Mongolians. Pituitary gland regulates the growth of the skeleton and supporting tissues. Climate, working on pi-tuitaries, is what makes some sections notorious for big feet.

In the "thyroid belt" around the Great Lakes, women incline to have large necks, with many goiters.

Climate, affecting the glands, regulates emotions and intellect as well as bodily peculiarities. Thus the hot tropical countries are eternally foaming with revolution. And in the northern countries there is less emotion and more brain.

Maybe climatic reaction on glands is why Ohio produces so many presidents.

The most interesting angle of all this is that science eventually may supply artificially, in pill form, the brilliance now supplied by nature according to one's geographical location.

HIP-FLASKS

Prohibition visits the orient, stays 48 hours and gets out. This happens in Manila, where a new law prohibits sale of liquor on registration and election days.

It is the first time that part of the world has had a bone-dry spell since primitive men of that Philippine Islands discovered that fermented juice of the nipa palm "went to the head."

Manila took the closing of bars good naturedly, and chuckled as it patted the hip-flask. It might not chuckle if it knew that locking the barroom during voting was the way prohibition got its real start in America.

The handwriting is on the wall,
Manila.

MAN-POWER

Le Trocquer, minister of public works in France, draws up plans for a tunnel under the English Channel.
His idea is to have Germany do the work and furnish the materials.

The completed job would strike $4-000,000,000 off the German indemnity.

It is a sensible plan. The bulk of the indemnity will be paid in manpower, or not at all. Germany hasn't the gold. She has the man-power.
Gold, after all, is just a mortgage on human labor.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

EXOPHTHALMIC GOITER

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP

Have you ever noticed persons whose eyes protruded from their sockets? Ten to one, these persons had what is known as exophthalmic goiter.

This is the most serious form of goiter. The simple form seen in girls in their teens is accompanied usually by enlargement of the neck and an operation on such a goiter is not fraught with great danger.

However, the operation on a goiter which is accompanied by rapid pulse, tremor and great nervousness, is dangerous.

Generally the first symptom noticed in the case of exophthalmic goiter is a rapid pulse. The heart beats fast at times, causing the victim to say there is palpitation, and throbbing in the neck. Then the eyeballs protrude. Enlargement of the throat gland comes in every case sooner or later, though not always noticeably. Trembling of the hands is an easily noted sign. Persons with goiter are continually on edge mentally. They are nervous, irritable, depressed and liable to insomnia.

Some good rules to follow are: Avoid all excitement or irritation. Get an abundance of rest. Go to bed early, sleeping long hours and taking a mid-day nap. Sleep in a thoroughly ventilated room. Eat and drink nothing that irritates the nervous system. Eat slowly and chew thoroughly. Avoid foods difficult to digest. Eat little meat. Drink plenty of milk. Eat foods prepared with milk, cream or butter. Avoid meat broths, and such organs as sweetbreads, liver, kidney, tripe and plucks. Eat freely of cooked fruits and vegetables and very ripe fruits. Drink fruit juices prepared from fruits. Eat eggs, butter, bread, toast, rice and cereals.

Drink an abundance of good water, known to be pure or distilled or boiled. Use no tobacco.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Egerton Barton

FLAPDOODLE AND HIS WAND IN MISCHIEF

So they tiptoed over... and pecked in.

The next place Nancy and Nick came to on the Tinky-Winkler Star was a great big oven, large enough for you and me and some of our friends to sleep in.

"Sh!" whispered Nancy. "Perhaps Flap-Doodle, the purple fairy, is hiding inside and we can get the wand he stole from the Fairy Queen."

So they tiptoed over as softly as velvet mice and pecked in.

But what do you suppose? It was a meeting they beheld. A meeting of a dozen Tinky-Winklers with big ears and colored a bright orange, all sitting in a circle inside the oven.

"It's an outrage, I call it!" said one Tinky-Winkler, fiercely to his neighbor.

"Worse than that! It's two outrages," said a second. "Just as soon as we got our handsome town hall built, Flap-Doodle sent us a bill for taxes, as big as a bed sheet. How can we pay them? We've no money left!"

"Yes," said a third Tinky-Winkler. "Ever since Flap-Doodle got that new stick of his that he says is so important, he thinks he can do everything. I wish we could get it."

"We'll help you!" cried Nick. "We're after Flap-Doodle, too. He stole the Fairy Queen's wand and

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is —INDEFATIGABILITY.

It's pronounced —in-de-fat-i-ga-bil-i-ty, with accent slightly upon the first and more strongly upon the third and sixth syllables.

It means—the quality of being incapable of fatigue or weariness; tirelessness.

It comes from—the Latin prefixes "in," meaning "not," and "de," meaning, among other things, "from," and the Latin verb "fatigare," meaning "to weary."

It's used like this—"The indefatigability of the late Lord Northcliffe was responsible, in great measure, for bracing the English to their task in the World War."

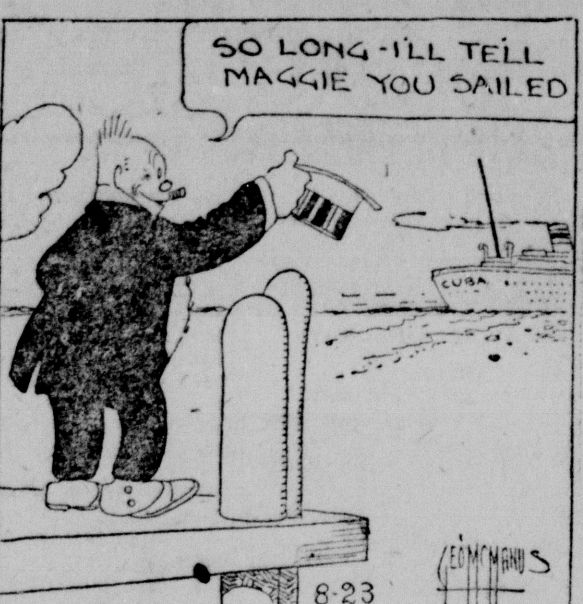

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A man that hath friends must show himself friendly.—Proverbs 18:24.

COL. HENRY DEMENT WRITES OF FAMOUS DEBATE IN FREEPORT

Former Secretary of State Recalls Events of the Day.

Another of the Lee County citizens who were present at the history-making debate between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas in 1858 in Freeport, has been heard from. He is Col. Henry D. Dement, former Secretary of State of Illinois. Col. C. H. Noble and Atty. A. C. Warner have been appointed a committee to gather the names of Lee County people who heard the debate. All are invited to be present at the celebration of the anniversary of the event in Freeport on Saturday of this week.

Col. Dement, who is at present in Memphis, Tenn., writes The Telegraph as follows:

Col. Dement's Letter.
I was a Lee County citizen who was present at the great debate at Freeport Aug. 26, 1858 and there are some incidents that are still very fresh in my memory.

We boarded a long train on the Illinois Central in the morning of the memorable day, filled with Republicans and Democrats. We had hardly crossed Rock river when the tall figure of Mr. Lincoln himself showed up in our car. He seemed in a very jolly mood, shaking hands with nearly everyone and chatting in a hilarious manner. There was no sign about him of the important event that was soon to occur, at which he was to be one of the participants.

I heard him and Douglas speak once each, and then, with other young men, went to the billiard room at the Brewster House and played until the speaking was all over and the Dixon crowd appeared on the scene, among whom was my father, who appreciated the debate more than his son did.

The advance arrivals informed me that my father was inquiring of every Dixon man he met if he had seen Henry! Had seen Henry! When he saw my playing billiards with some of my young friends he came up and took my friend's cue, in no good humor, and we played, and I was beating him and he was getting madder and madder all the time. There were many looking on and after the game was over B. F. Shaw laughingly said: "Henry, if you had let him win he would not have been so mad." So you see, I have a reason for remembering the occasion.

Debate Ruined Douglas
The debate at Freeport ruined Douglas' chance for the presidency, because Mr. Lincoln asked him a question that which ever way he answered it would divide his support. They were competing for the U. S. Senatorship at this time but after Mr. Lincoln was defeated for U. S. Senate he said "Douglas won the Senatorship but he will be defeated for President" and he was.

By that question, Mr. Douglas admitted that there was a way that slavery could be kept out of the territories. The South held that the territories belonged to the U. S. and that they had as much right to take a slave there as a Northerner had to take a horse there. The admission by Mr. Douglas that there was a way to keep slavery out of the territories by his "Squatter Sovereignty" drove the South from his support and defeated him for the Presidency.

Very truly yours,
H. D. DEMENT.

DeKalb Co. Woman Died of Pistol Shot

Mrs. William Foster, wife of a prominent DeKalb county farmer was accidentally shot and killed Saturday morning at her home near Fairdale. It is believed she was shot after dropping her husband's revolver on the floor, the fall discharging the gun. The gun was usually kept under a pillow in the bed.

Jake Flynn, a farm hand visited the home just before noon for dinner and found the woman lying on a bedroom floor dead. He summoned aid from Fairdale and Charles Foster, a son, in Flynn's absence, found the body of his mother and also sent for doctors.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death. Mr. Foster, who is a deputy sheriff in DeKalb county and well known in Rockford was attending the Elks' convention at Beloit as a delegate from the Sycamore lodge.

BASE HITS

Chicago, Aug. 23. — (By the Associated Press.) — Headed pennantward while their St. Louis and Chicago rivals falter, the New York Giants today are four games ahead of the Cardinals and five and a half ahead of the Cubs, despite the fact that they have been invading the enemy's own strongholds.

Behind Hugh McQuillan's master hurling, the McGrawmen rode rough shod over Cincinnati and their star young moundman, Johnny Cough, in the first game of the series with the Reds, 7-3. The Cardinals were idle, but the Cubs dropped a close contest to Brooklyn, 5-4, chiefly due to Dazzy Vance's effective twirling.

Joe Bush's winning streak was stopped at nine straight and the Yankees had their lead over the Browns cut to a half game by Cleveland's victory, 6-2. George Uhle held the Yankees to a brace of hits, while Tris Speaker's homer in the first inning started an attack on Bush that caused him to be derided in favor of Murray after the fifth.

Shocker's twirling and Sisler's all around play helped St. Louis to trounce Boston 9-4, and climb closer to the top.

Herman Pilette registered his seventeenth victory of the season, and Herby Heilmann his nineteenth homer as the Tigers, continuing their heavy batting attack, pounded out two victories over the Athletics, 6-4 and 17-2. Lou Blue increased his margin as the league's leading run scorer by tallying seven times in the two games.

After losing the first game of a twin bill to Washington, Mask, a recruit, twirled the White Sox to a 3-0 shut-out. Max Carey's hit drove in the run that enabled Pittsburgh to down Philadelphia, 4-3.

Fred Toney, who was obtained by the Cardinals from the Braves via the vaing route, will be of no help to St. Louis in its fight for the pennant this year. Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, saw Toney in Nashville, Tenn., and said the big fellow would report in the spring.

The Giants got the jump on the Reds and were never headed.

Dazzy Vance had his hoodoo working on the Cubs and the Dodgers romped off with a decision. It was the fifth time Vance has defeated the Cubs this season.

The Pirates, as a result of their victory over the Phillies, moved back into fourth place.

Plenty of hits by the Browns and four errors by the Red Sox, made it easy for St. Louis.

George Sisler was the star in a generally slow and loosely played game between the Browns and Red Sox. Sis cracked out three hits in five times at bat, made eleven put-outs and one assist.

The Tigers took a double header from the Athletics. Homers by Veach and Blue and a wild pitch decided the first game, while the second game was a swat-fest for the Tigers.

The White Sox broke their losing streak when they won the second game of a double header from Washington.

Stubby Mack, pitcher, obtained from Seattle by the White Sox, kept the Senators guessing. He pitched great ball, holding his opponents to five scattered hits, and cracked out two hits himself, including a triple and scored one run.

Catcher Perkins of the Athletics drew his first banishment from a game since he came into the major leagues when the umpire sent him to the club house for protesting against a home run by Blue. One of the fans in the bleachers reached out and caught the ball.

WOMAN'S COMPLEX LIFE.
Woman's complex life with its multitudinous calls is given as the reason for many a nervous breakdown. Home work, social obligations, dressmaking and the care of children keep the 20th century woman in a whirlwind of activity until headaches develop, backache, nervousness and oftentimes more serious ills which are peculiar to her sex alone. Such women should not despair, but be guided by the letters so often published in this paper from women who have been in just such conditions, but who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DREAM BARES MURDER PLOT AND NAMES TWO OF BOYS' SLAYERS

Medium Led Way to Torture Shack Near Havana, Ill.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 23.—That a "death diary" written by her son, John Schorr, revealing names of his torturers and slayers while he was held captive in a shack near Havana, Ill., was found in the charred ruins of the place by a woman who had a vision of it being there was the strange story told by Mrs. Mary Richards today.

And at the same time, Mrs. Richards is closely guarding the contents of the note book. She says that the threats have been made on her life in the event that it is publicly revealed.

The notes written on cheap ruled paper and in the positive hand of John Schorr, were found Sunday in the basement ruins of a shack at Atwater Woods, near Havana, the shack said to have been occupied by Rolla Spaulding, while posing there as "Bob Anderson," and who is being held in the county jail for the alleged murder of Constable Smith.

Protect the Discoverer
"A certain woman whose name I refuse to reveal because it would place her in danger of the gang, found the note book," Mrs. Richards said, "and it all came through spiritualism."

"Several nights ago a vision came to her in her sleep that the note book was there. She went to the spot the next day and found the vision was true. The book was found buried beneath some debris."

Mrs. Richards shuddered when she spoke of the details of the note book. "The letter is as secretive and mysterious as the trail of sinister movements which have gone before," she said. "I have turned it over to the authorities. My life has been threatened and I scarcely know what to do." Mrs. Richards disclosed that the names of the men who killed Constable Arthur Smith were mentioned in the book. Connection between that crime and the slaying of Night Marshal Frederick at Manito, Ill., by members of the same gang was also revealed, she said.

Two Detectives Named

State's Attorney E. Galbreith who now has the book locked in a vault, says the handwriting is almost certainly that of Schorr. Immediate revelation of the contents is expected because of the filing of habeas corpus action at noon by attorneys for Spaulding. The state's attorney refused today to divulge contents of the diary in which it was said that two city detectives of Peoria were named for the killing.

Irate Wife Turns On Poor Old Volstead as Cause of Her Trouble

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 23.—Representative Volstead of Minnesota is blamed by Mrs. Barbara Kordick, in her petition for divorce filed here yesterday, for the rift in her marital relations. According to the petition, the husband liked his drink before the advent of prohibition days, but he always remained peaceful and quiet. When prohibition went into effect, Mrs. Kordick said, she was so overwrought with joy that she hung a picture of the "gentleman from Minnesota" in her parlor. But all that Congressman Volstead did for her,

CORNER GALENA AVE. AND SECOND ST.

There was a sudden snigger from a nervous gentleman in the crowd, the back of the room, and the corner put on his glasses and stared sterner in the direction from which it came. The nervous gentleman hastily decided that the time had come to do up his bootlace. The corner put down his glasses and continued.

"Did anybody come out of the house while you were coming up the drive?"

"No."

"Thank you, Mr. Gillingham."

He was followed by Inspector Birch. The Inspector, realizing that this was his afternoon, and that the eyes of the world were upon him, produced a plan of the house and explained the situation of the different rooms. The plan was then handed to the jury.

Inspector Birch, so he told the world, had arrived at the Red House at 4:42 p. m., on the afternoon in question. He had been received by Mr. Matthew Cayley, who had made a short statement to him, and he had then proceeded to examine the scene of the crime.

The french windows had been forced from outside. The door leading into the hall was locked; he had searched the room thoroughly and had found no trace of a key. In the bedroom leading out of the office he had found an open window. There were no marks on the window, but it was a low one, and, as he found from experience, quite easy to step out of without touching it with the foot.

A few yards outside the window a shrubbery began. There were no recent footmarks outside the window, but the ground was in a very hard condition owing to the absence of rain. In the shrubbery, however, he found several twigs on the ground, recently broken off, together with other evidence that some body had been forcing its way through.

He had questioned everybody connected with the estate, and none of them had been into the shrubbery recently. By forcing a way through the shrubbery it was possible for a person to make a detour of the house and get to the Stanton end of the park without ever being in sight of the house itself.

He had made inquiries about the deceased. Deceased had left for Australia some fifteen years ago, owing to some financial trouble at home. Deceased was not well spoken of in the village from which he and his brother had come. Deceased and his brother had never been on good terms, and the fact that Mark Ablett had come into money had been a cause of great bitterness between them. It was shortly after this that Robert had left for Australia.

He had made inquiries at Stanton station. It had been market-day at Stanton and the station had been more full of arrivals than usual. Nobody had particularly noticed the arrival of Robert Ablett; there had been a good many passengers by the 2.10 train that afternoon, the train by which Robert had undoubtedly come from London. A witness, however, would state that he noticed a man resembling Mark Ablett at the station at 3.53 that afternoon, and this man caught the 3.55 up train to town.

There was a pond in the grounds of the Red House. He had dragged this, but without result.

Inspector Birch, so he told the world, had arrived at the Red House at 4:42 p. m., on the afternoon in question. He had been received by Mr. Matthew Cayley, who had made a short statement to him, and he had then proceeded to examine the scene of the crime.

uncanny about it.

Anthony went on with his thoughts. The coroner was summing up. The jury, he said, had now heard all the evidence. The medical evidence would probably satisfy them that Robert Ablett had died from the effects of a bullet wound in the head. Who had fired that bullet? If Robert Ablett had fired it himself, no doubt they would bring in a verdict of suicide, but if this had been so, where was the revolver which had fired it, and what had become of Mark Ablett?

If they disbelieved in this possibility of suicide, what remained? Accidental death, justifiable homicide, and murder. Could the deceased have been killed accidentally? It was possible, but then would Mark Ablett have run away?

The evidence that he had run

"WHEN DID THIS HAPPEN?" HE ASKED

away from the scene of the crime was strong. His cousin had seen him go into the room, the servant Elsie Wood had heard him quarreling with his brother in the room, the door had been locked from the inside, and there were signs that outside the open window someone had pushed his way very recently through the shrubbery. Who, if not Mark?

They would have then to consider whether he would have run away if he had been guiltless of his brother's death. No doubt innocent people lost their heads sometimes. It was possible that if it were proved afterward that Mark Ablett had shot his brother, it might also be proved that he was justified in so doing, and that when he ran away from his brother's corpse he had really nothing to fear at the hands of the law. Mark Ablett guilty of murder it would not prejudice his trial in any way if and when he was apprehended. . . . The jury would consider their verdict.

They considered it. They announced that the deceased had died as the result of a bullet wound, and that the bullet had been fired by his brother Mark Ablett.

Bill turned round to Anthony at his side. But Anthony was gone. Across the room he saw Andrew Amos and Parsons going out of the door together with Anthony between them.

CHAPTER XIX

THE inquest had been held at the "Lamb" at Stanton: at Stanton Robert Ablett was to be buried the next day. Bill waited about outside for his friend, wondering where he had gone.

Then, realizing that Cayley would be coming out to his car directly, and that a farewell talk with Cayley would be a little embarrassing, he wandered round to the yard at the back of the inn, lit a cigarette, and stood surveying a torn and weather-beaten poster on the stable wall. "Grand Theatricals" it announced, to take place on "Wednesday, Decem."

Bill smiled to himself as he looked at it, for the part of Joe, a loquaacious postman, had been played by "William E. Bever," as the remnants of the poster still maintained, and he had been much less loquacious than the author had intended, having forgotten his words completely, but it had all been great fun.

"Sorry to keep you waiting," said the voice of Anthony behind him. "My old friends Amos and Parsons insisted on giving me a drink."

He slipped his hand into the crook of Bill's arm, and smiled happily at him.

"Why were you so keen about them?" asked Bill a little resentfully. "I couldn't think where on earth you had got to."

Anthony didn't say anything. He was staring at the poster.

"When did this happen?" he asked.

"What?"

Anthony waved to the poster. "Oh, that? Last Christmas. It was rather fun."

Anthony began to laugh to himself.

"Were you good?"

"Rotten. I don't profess to be an actor."

"Mark good?"

"Oh, rather. He loves it."

"Rev. Henry Stutters—Mr. Mat-theew Cay," read Anthony. "Was that our friend Cayley?"

"Yes."

"Any good?"

"Well, much better than I expected. He wasn't keen, but Mark made him."

"Miss Norris wasn't playing. I see."

"My dear Tony, she's a professional. Of course she wasn't."

"I'm a fool, and a damned fool," Anthony pronounced solemnly. "And a damned fool," he said again under his breath, as he led Bill away from the poster, and out of the yard into the road. "And a damned fool, even now."

He broke off and then asked suddenly, "Did Mark ever have much trouble with his teeth?"

"He went to his dentist a good deal. But what on earth—"

Anthony laughed a third time.

"What luck?" he chuckled. "But how do you know?"

"We go to the same man; Mark recommended him to me. Cartwright, in Wimpole Street."

"Cartwright in Wimpole Street," repeated Anthony thoughtfully. "Yes, I can remember that. Cartwright in Wimpole Street. Did Cayley go to him too, by any chance?"

"I expect so. Oh, yes, I know he did. But what on earth—"

"What was Mark's general health like? Did he see a doctor much?"

"Hardly at all, I should think. He did a lot of early morning exercises which were supposed to make him bright and cheerful at breakfast. They didn't do that, but they seemed to keep him pretty fit. Tony, I wish you'd—"

Anthony held up a hand and him into silence.

"One last question," he said. "Was Mark fond of swimming?"

"No, he hated it. I don't believe he could swim. Tony, are you mad, or am I? Or is this a new game?"

Anthony squeezed his arm.

"Dear old Bill," he said. "It's a game. What a game! And the answer is Cartwright in Wimpole Street."

They walked in silence for half a mile or so along the road to Woodham. Bill tried two or three times to get his friend to talk, but Anthony had only granted in reply. He was just going to make another attempt, when Anthony came to a sudden stop and turned to him anxiously.

"I wonder if you'd do something for me," he said, looking at him with some doubt.

"What sort of thing?"

"Well, it's really dashed important. It's just the one thing I want now."

Bill was suddenly enthusiastic again.

"I say, have you really found it all out?"

Anthony nodded.

"At least, I'm very nearly there, Bill. There's just this one thing I want now. It means your going back to Stanton. Well, we haven't come far; it won't take you long. Do you mind?"

"My dear Holmes, I am at your service."

MADAM JUJIYA

(DR. CLAUDE BACKUS, IN JAPAN.)

We were traveling into Kyoto, city of cherry blossoms, hills and beautiful maidens, they say in Japan. "But best of all, quoth my Japanese friend, you will see Jujiya, a friend of mine."

I let it go at that, thinking he had a business friend I was to meet.

We had not been in the hotel long when he went to the phone booth and returned with a wry face. "It is very sad," he said, Jujiya is in Tokyo."

Again I passed the startling information with no sense of grief. Should the same thing occur now, my face would be in mourning.

Later during our stay a business associate was dining with us and after dinner he suggested that I see Theatre street, one of the world's justly renowned thoroughfares. "And then, he continued, I will introduce you to Jujiya, friend of mine."

Down the winding road from the lofty perch of the Miyako Hotel went we, passing famous temples and quaint rice paper houses in a brilliant moonlight. It was a rare night in beautiful, quiet Kyoto, most attractive of all Japan's cities. The wonderful trees and rapid running streams made a setting for the Oriental picture not to be surpassed.

Theatre street was all that it promised, blazing with light it's narrow length, with tiny shops on either side wherein one might buy all the tops and knickknacks of the Empire, set out in attractive manner to tempt such as I.

At the end of the street we made a turn to the right and entered a shop filled with musical instruments. It was a shop of no mean proportions and well filled with clerks and customers, snatching about over hebeche's bargaining as is their wont. Cards were sent into a mysterious interior and shortly all were on their feet bowing profusely. In the doorway stood a Japanese woman in very plain, somber kimono, her jet black hair brushed plainly from a part in the middle.

"Well, though I, a woman in the case and nothing to rave about at that," I knew better a minute later when she smiled. Animation is not a marked trait of the Japanese woman but when Jujiya smiles the world is brighter and fairer. A long introduction in Japanese followed in which my history and my famous company were set forth and I prepared to bow as many or more times than she and lower, as I have learned to do but no.

Madam Jujiya quickly advanced and stopped me. "No, no, we will make greeting the American way," and we shook hands. Her English was very halting but distinct. "I am the Japanese Tom-boy; there is but one for my people are very sober until you Americans have taught them to make joke. For me, I love the laughing and what you say, make fun? Yes? And you, too, will be my friend and teacher."

She was irresistible and I began to comprehend the enthusiasm of my friends.

They told me she was the most famous woman in Japan and had more friends than any other. Her house was an old establishment of instrument dealers and when Jujiya's husband had died on a trip to America, she carried on, gaining wealth and fame. Noted as a musician, player of piano and samisen, she was now writing a treatise on the latter to introduce it into the Occident.

Translated, Jujiya is "The Cross" and she is known throughout the length and breadth of the land by that name.

Later in Osaka this same Kyoto business man came to our hotel inviting himself to dine with us without embarrassment, as is the habit of friends in Japan. We were pleased as he until he asked that we attend a dance after dinner not far from where we were. It didn't appeal to me in the least and rapidly was my mind debating the possibility of decent refusal, when he went on "Jujiya will be there and I have promised that she will see you again."

Well, I felt sorry for poor Chiba San, who had an after dinner engagement with an old university friend whom he had not seen for many years.

That ball was a thing of beauty and will be a joy forever in my memory. It was a club function and I was one of the elect. The floor was dotted with brilliant hued Spanish Iris and Butterflies with only here and there a dash of European dress to mar it. And then came Jujiya. The plainest Kimono, the simplest coiffure and no trace of rice powder or rouge but surrounded instantly by young men eagerly asking for her card.

Bowing from the hips with the most wonderful grace of the Japanese greetings, she straightened and came to me with outstretched hand in the most unaffected, friendly manner after passing her Japanese friends. "My friend, it is my great pleasure to see you again when I have thought you have said very far from there by now. And see, I have saved this one-step, which will you please have with Jujiya."

Now, Amigo, if you fancy it a hardship to dance with a lady in sandals, attached to her by only a thong between the toes, just you journey to Japan and seek the friendship of the sole and only Japanese Tom-boy! If there is any high-heeled slipper lady of the Occident who can float through the atmosphere as lightly or with more animation than "The Cross" I want to be told.

She was the life of that big ball; introducing, directing, dancing and attending all. Wherever she was, there was a crowd and she kept them all happy, splitting dances and dividing favors. Deftly she sought the English speaking people, introducing them to me and somehow I knew that she had whispered to them to shake hands with me. My first experience was with a dainty Iris of wonderful purple kimono to whom I was preparing to execute my best bow-kow but no—"You are from America then? I am very pleased to meet. I am sorry that there is no dance left but in Kobe where you will come we dance every Tuesday and Saturday at tea dance in the Imperial, so we will then dance."

So, Madam Jujiya was paving my social career in my next stop.

Shortly there was a crowd of young men asking about the tall buildings in New York, discussing American-Japanese friendship and what not. When, on my early departure, Jujiya conducted me to the door I felt that the Victoria Cross meant no greater honor but when she invited me to the Cherry dance in Kyoto, my cup was indeed full.

Americans have taught them to make joke. For me, I love the laughing and what you say, make fun? Yes? And you, too, will be my friend and teacher."

She was irresistible and I began to comprehend the enthusiasm of my friends.

They told me she was the most famous woman in Japan and had more friends than any other. Her house was an old establishment of instrument dealers and when Jujiya's husband had died on a trip to America, she carried on, gaining wealth and fame. Noted as a musician, player of piano and samisen, she was now writing a treatise on the latter to introduce it into the Occident.

Translated, Jujiya is "The Cross" and she is known throughout the length and breadth of the land by that name.

Later in Osaka this same Kyoto business man came to our hotel inviting himself to dine with us without embarrassment, as is the habit of friends in Japan. We were pleased as he until he asked that we attend a dance after dinner not far from where we were. It didn't appeal to me in the least and rapidly was my mind debating the possibility of decent refusal, when he went on "Jujiya will be there and I have promised that she will see you again."

Well, I felt sorry for poor Chiba San, who had an after dinner engagement with an old university friend whom he had not seen for many years.

That ball was a thing of beauty and will be a joy forever in my memory. It was a club function and I was one of the elect. The floor was dotted with brilliant hued Spanish Iris and Butterflies with only here and there a dash of European dress to mar it. And then came Jujiya. The plainest Kimono, the simplest coiffure and no trace of rice powder or rouge but surrounded instantly by young men eagerly asking for her card.

Bowing from the hips with the most wonderful grace of the Japanese greetings, she straightened and came to me with outstretched hand in the most unaffected, friendly manner after passing her Japanese friends. "My friend, it is my great pleasure to see you again when I have thought you have said very far from there by now. And see, I have saved this one-step, which will you please have with Jujiya."

Now, Amigo, if you fancy it a hard-

ship to dance with a lady in sandals, attached to her by only a thong between the toes, just you journey to Japan and seek the friendship of the sole and only Japanese Tom-boy! If there is any high-heeled slipper lady of the Occident who can float through the atmosphere as lightly or with more animation than "The Cross" I want to be told.

She was the life of that big ball; introducing, directing, dancing and attending all. Wherever she was, there was a crowd and she kept them all happy, splitting dances and dividing favors. Deftly she sought the English speaking people, introducing them to me and somehow I knew that she had whispered to them to shake hands with me. My first experience was with a dainty Iris of wonderful purple kimono to whom I was preparing to execute my best bow-kow but no—"You are from America then? I am very pleased to meet. I am sorry that there is no dance left but in Kobe where you will come we dance every Tuesday and Saturday at tea dance in the Imperial, so we will then dance."

So, Madam Jujiya was paving my social career in my next stop.

Shortly there was a crowd of young men asking about the tall buildings in New York, discussing American-Japanese friendship and what not. When, on my early departure, Jujiya conducted me to the door I felt that the Victoria Cross meant no greater honor but when she invited me to the Cherry dance in Kyoto, my cup was indeed full.

"Rat-Snap Beats the Best Trap Ever Made," Mrs. Emily Shaw Says.

"My husband bought a $2 trap. I bought a 65c box of RAT-SNAP. The trap only caught 3 rats but RAT-SNAP killed 12 in a week. I'm never without RAT-SNAP. Reckon I couldn't raise chicks without it."

RAT-SNAP comes in cakes. Three sizes, 25c, 55c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Public Drug & Book Co., and E. N. Howell Hardware Co.—Adv.

DON'T RISK NEGLECT
 Don't neglect a constant backache, sharp, darting pains or urinary disorders. The danger of dropsy or Bright's disease is too serious to ignore. Use Doan's Kidney Pills as have your friends and neighbors. A Dixon case: Mrs. Leland Pontius, 609 S. Crawford St., says: "I was suffering from kidney trouble and I fairly screamed with pains across my back and kidneys. I couldn't turn in bed and I had cold sweats. My kidneys were in a terrible condition. I doctored and took almost everything I heard of besides using plasters and liniments but nothing gave me any relief. Our family doctor said I would have to be operated upon as I had passed gravel stones and he said others would have to be removed by the knife. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use and I was helped from the start. After using about eight boxes Doan's removed the gravel stones in the form of a sandy sediment." (Statement given April 30, 1917.) On April 7, 1921, Mrs. Pontius said: "My praise for Doan's Kidney Pills is just as strong today as when I gave my statement in 1917. Doan's gave me a lasting cure from gravel." 60c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Squirrels Raid His Melon Patch; Curry is Near Distraction

Arco, Ill., Aug. 22.—The negro of the south has nothing on the squirrels of Illinois when it comes to an appetite for watermelon. Harry Curry, a resident of Oakland, who has a patch of melons in the Am-braw timber, southwest of Oakland, reports that the squirrels have about put him out of business. The pesky little animals rip open the green melons and take the seeds, and they have about ruined that part of the patch, which is near the timber. Mr. Curry has placed steel traps all over the patch and has set up newspaper tied to sticks, as "scare-offs," but with little success.

GEORGE FITZMAURICE PRODUCTION

"The Man From Home"

WITH JAMES KIRKWOOD

A love-drama as warm as the Italian skies under which it was filmed.

By Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson—Scenario by Guida Bergere. Cast: Anna Q. Nilsson, Norman Kerry, Dorothy Cumming, John Milner.

"The Man From Home" was entirely produced in Italy, and, furthermore, in the exact locations of which the author wrote. Thus it abounds in natural beauty of a type hitherto only seen on the screen in travel pictures. It is easy then to see that with this superb background provided in conjunction with a thrilling and colorful story the result must certainly be a decidedly worth-while one. It is an adaptation of one of the most popular Booth Tarkington novels, which in turn was dramatized to make one of the most sensational plays ever presented on Broadway. The cast is an all-star one. Thus in story, cast, direction and location, the picture is one of the outstanding productions of the season.
